WHITE IN RACE; OTHERS TO FILE

Candidates' Declarations Must Be Made This Week.

NEXT FRIDAY THE LAST DAY

Supporters of McAdoo to Make Fight
For the Ohio Delegation to Democratic National Convention—Coolidge Delegates Approved by the President—Secretary of State
Brown's Ruling.

Columbus, Feb. 25.—Secretary of State Brown has made a ruling requiring candidates for delegates to the national conventions to obtain the written consent of the presidential candidate whom they wish to support
before they can enter.

Brown declared the question to be decided at Ohio's presidential primary April 29 is not "who shall be the delegates to the party conventions?" but "who shall be nominated
for president at those conventions?"

The ruling of the secretary of state reverses the rule hitherto observed in Ohio and "closes" the primary election to candidates who can not obtain
the written consent of presidential aspirants.

The ruling was given to the board of elections of Stark county, where Harry H. Weiss, Democrat, had attempted to file a declaration naming James M. Cox first choice and former Governor James E. Campbell second choice, without having obtained their consent.

The primary election system came into effect in Ohio in 1916. At that time H. Q. Hildebrandt, then secretary of state, held the written declaration of a candidate for president
opened the field to any person desiring to file as candidate for delegate.
It was adhered to by Secretary of State Harvey Smith, but reversed by others.

Hoke Donithen, President Cool-
idge's Ohio manager, entered Coolidge as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, it being accompanied by the request that his name be printed upon official ballots
for the April primary election. With the Coolidge declaration was filed authorization of Arthur L. Garford of Elyria for the use of his name as second choice of the Coolidge delegates,
as provided for in the Ohio primary election law. Donithen was designated as official representative in Ohio
of Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Garford.
Coolidge delegates, both at large and for the districts, are expected to file
in a few days.

William G. McAdoo is expected to file his declaration early this week.
Secretary Brown advised W. D. Wil-
kin, Cleveland, attorney, and H. G.
Deweese, Columbus, at a conference
here, that it would be necessary to obtain written consent of the former treasury secretary before delegates
could file for him. The two McAdoo supporters immediately wired to Mr.
McAdoo in Los Angeles requesting
him to forward his consent.

McAdoo Men to Fight.
Supporters of McAdoo say they will make a determined fight for Ohio delegates to the Democratic national convention. Former Governor James M. Cox, Democratic presidential candidate in 1920, also will be a candidate. Written consent for his candidacy is in the hands of Ohio Democrats, but he has not filed with the secretary of state.

James A. White, former superintendent of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League, has entered into the contest
for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. His candidacy was announced on a platform of tax reduction, law enforcement, honest administration,
better care of state wards and improved roads.

Declarations of other gubernatorial candidates must be filed before Friday, the last day candidates may enter the race. Among Republicans who have indicated that they will become candidates are State Senator J.
F. Burke of Elyria and Roscoe C.
McCulloch of Canton.

President Coolidge's declaration revealed that he had given his formal approval to the lists of delegates selected by the state conference of Republican organizations here a few weeks ago. This list is headed by Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty. Mr. Daugherty's running mates
on the "big seven" are Senators
Frank B. Willis and Simeon D. Pees.
William Cooper Procter of Cincinnati, Charles L. Knight of Akron, Mrs. John G. Battelle of Columbus
and Mrs. David Tod of Youngstown.

BUMPER CROP EXPECTED

Ohio Farmers to Use Improved Potato Seed the Coming Spring.

Columbus, Feb. 25.—C. W. Ward of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation
states that Ohio's 1924 potato crop should be the best ever produced if
the season treats kindly the amount of good seed stock which will be used. Northern grown seeds will be used in greater amounts than ever before. Pooled orders for improved seed are coming to the offices of the federation from every potato growing section of Ohio, made up largely by county farm bureaus, working with individual growers. Many pooled
orders are being filled with improved seed from Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, although about 10,000
bushels of Ohio produced certified seed will also be used.

Use of the northern grown certified seed has grown rapidly during the past few years, according to Mr.
Ward. Experiments of several years ago showed that the northern grown
seed was more nearly free from disease and higher yielding than the majority of native Ohio stock.

PROSPEROUS YEAR AHEAD FOR OHIOANS

State Banks Have Largest Resources in Their History.

Columbus, Feb. 25.—Ohio's state banks closed the year 1923 with the largest total of resources in their history, according to a statement issued today by H. E. Scott, superintendent of banks, based on reports made under the recent call.

Resources of these banks at that time totaled $1,723,887,658, a gain of nearly $157,000,000 during the year.
Deposits were $1,478,321,348, a gain
of more than $140,000,000 during the year. Of this sum nearly $711,000,000
were savings deposits, a gain in savings deposits of more than $107,000,- 000 during the year. Superintendent
Scott says these figures indicate people of Ohio have acquired permanent savings habits.

Loans and discounts exceeded
$1,000,000, an increase of nearly $125,- 000,000 during the year. Real estate loans exceeded $392,000,000, an increase of nearly $53,000,000.

Superintendent Scott says these figures show the extent to which the banks of the state responded to the demands for funds for buildings, manufacturing, farming and general business requirements. "Based upon information presented under the recent call, the department of banks feels warranted in predicting that the year 1924 will be a prosperous one for the people of the state of Ohio," said Superintendent Scott.

MANY STUDENTS ILL

Walking Typhoid Fever Raging at University of Tennessee.

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 25.—Two deaths occurred during an epidemic
of typhoid fever at the Lincoln Memorial university, at Harrogate, Tenn., since Jan. 19, according to an announcement by Dr. C. B. Crittenden, state health commissioner. A number of other students are reported to be seriously ill. Seventy-five cases have developed. The disease is characterized by health authorities as the "walking typhoid." Two floors
of the girls' dormitory have been converted into a hospital, with 30 nurses
and no students are allowed to leave
the institution.

BONUS MEASURE TO BE TAKEN UP

Will Be Considered as Soon as Tax Bill Is Disposed Of.

LEADERS' PLANS ANNOUNCED

Secretary Mellon of the Opinion That Neither the Garner Schedule In the Revenue Bill Nor the Original Mellon Rates Would Raise Sufficient
Revenue For a Bonus—Compromise
Sought on the Surtax Rate.

Washington, Feb. 25.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has informed members of the house that neither the Garner schedule now in the tax reduction bill, the original Mellon rates or those including miscellaneous tax changes reported by the ways
and means committee would raise sufficient revenue for a bonus.

Mr. Mellon had been asked for his views on a compromise schedule for a 40 per cent surtax rate and a normal rate of 5 per cent on the incomes
of more than $4,000, instead of 6
per cent, as carried in the organization measure.

Regular Republicans are continuing negotiations for a compromise on the surtax rate. They would throw out of the bill the Garner proposal,
which fixes maximum surtaxes at 44
per cent.

Minor amendments to the tax reduction bill, none of which were passed, proposing to allow taxpayers
more time in which to correct returns
questioned by the treasury, were defeated in short skirmishes prior to the fight on the excess profits tax.
The latter was defeated 157 to 74. A stubborn fight for the excess profits
tax amendment, which would have
re-enacted the law repealed in 1921,
with slightly different rates, so prolonged consideration of the bill that leaders predicted a final vote on it could not now be expected before the latter part of the week. Representative
James N. Frear of Wisconsin, Republican insurgent, submitted the amendment and was supported in debate by Representative William A.
Oldfield of Arkansas, Democrat. Democrats, however, divided on the question, only about half of those present
voting with the Republican insurgents for it.

Representative Longworth, Republican floor leader, gave assurance that the house would have an opportunity shortly to vote on a soldiers' bonus
bill. This assurance was given to a group of house members who are former service men, when they called on the party leader to urge quick action
by the ways and means committee on bonus legislation and an immediate vote by the house after a bill is reported. Mr. Longworth said the committee, as instructed by a Republican party conference, would take up the bonus bill as soon as the house dis-
poses of the pending tax measure.
Little time, he said, should be needed
for the committee to act and after a bill is reported it will be given priority on the house legislative calendar.

After passage of the tax bill and
while the ways and means committee
is considering the bonus, Republican leaders plan to have the house dispose of the navy appropriation bill
and legislation authorizing acceptance of Henry Ford's bid for Muscle Shoals.

Estate Left to Charity.

Washington C. H., O., Feb. 25.—Under the terms of the will of Jesse Eymann, Fayette county farmer, an estate of approximately $200,000 is left to charity. One-third of the proceeds after sale of real estate is to be paid into the Fayette county poor fund annually and the remaining two-thirds is to be distributed annually
to the Fayette county children's home, the Fayette county Red Cross
and other organizations.

Arson Charges Against Youth.

Portsmouth, O., Feb. 25.—Paul Brock, 18, admitted, police say, that he set fire to four places just to see the fire apparatus in action and get a little excitement. He is said to have confessed that he started two blazes recently in the Times Publishing company's building, where he was employed, set fire to his own home,
which was badly damaged, and the barn of an adjoining dwelling, authorities say.

DOINGS IN OHIO

State Lacks Hospitals.

Columbus, Feb. 25.—Dr. R. G. Leland, chief of division of hygiene in the state health department, outlined
a review of health conditions in Ohio
as revealed in reports received by the department. "Ohio," said Dr. Leland, "is greatly underhospitalized.
However, movements are on in Columbus, Toledo, Cleveland and Cincinnati to relieve this condition. In a number of counties in the southeastern and southern part of the state
there is not a single hospital bed. In New York city alone there are more
hospital beds than in the entire state of Ohio. It is almost unbelievable that with few exceptions we have not until now given our human mechanism the same care we give our prize
pedigreed live stock."

See 9-Cent Fare.

Cincinnati, Feb. 25.—It is announced here that unless a settlement of the traction problem in Cincinnati is effected by April 1 on a basis of the joint report submitted by the Cincinnati Street Railway company and the Cincinnati Traction company to the council committee on street railroads,
which is not anticipated, the rate of fare on that date will be increased to 9 cents. That fact is predicted on the financial statement of the Cincinnati Traction company for January,
which indicates a deficit, it is said.

Big Plant Sold.

Dayton, O., Feb. 25.—The plant and equipment of the Davis Sewing Machine company was purchased by W.
S. McConughey & Shea, attorneys, representing the second mortgage
bond holders and priority creditors,
one of which is said to be the Union Trust company of Cleveland. The price paid was in excess of $500,000,
the low figure set by Judge John E.
Sater of the United States district court. The appraised value of the factory was $4,000,000.

Disastrous Blaze.

Salem, O., Feb. 25.—The business
district of this place was swept by fire with heavy losses to several firms. The fire started in the cellar of a shoestore on Broadway. When it was discovered it had gained headway inside the walls of the store. The fire spread to a grocery store next door, then down the street to the Schwartz department store, a meat market and a confectionery. All were destroyed.

Town Marshal Killed.

New Lexington, O., Feb. 25.—The village of San Toy, this county, was
the scene of a tragedy yesterday,
in which Luther Reed, marshal of the village, was shot and killed. Emmett Tague and James Branigan are held by the police.

Man and Wife Shot.

Bucyrus, O., Feb. 25.—George Soli-
nas, 40, was shot and killed by A.
Xanthoulis. Solinas' wife was shot twice by Xanthoulis. Her condition is not serious. Xanthoulis then attempted to kill himself with the same
gun. He will recover.

Worker Electrocuted.

Dayton, O., Feb. 25.—Paul H. Star-keiser, 38, was electrocuted while repairing a cable in the Dayton malleable iron works.

ICKES NAMED.

Cleveland, Feb. 25.—At a meeting
here of Ohio delegates favorable to the candidacy of Senator Hiram W.
Johnson, announcement was made that Harold L. Ickes of Chicago, manager of the Johnson campaign in Illinois, was the choice after Johnson.

Woman Fatally Burned.

Columbus, Feb. 25.—Her clothing
catching fire from an open gas grate,
Mrs. Hannah Kinkead, 88, mother of Judge E. B. Kinkead, was so badly burned that she died several hours
later.

RENEW DEMAND FOR AN INQUIRY

Senators Would Investigate the Attorney General.

WHEELER RESOLUTION IS UP

Clause For Selecting the Investigating Committee Personnel Opposed
by Republican Leaders—Resolution
Likely to Be Adopted Within a Day
or Two—Wheeler and Borah Leading the Fight in the Senate.

Washington, Feb. 25.—Demand for a senate committee investigation of Attorney General Daugherty was renewed in the senate today, the resolution of inquiry offered by Senator
Wheeler (Dem., Mont.) being before that body. A vote on the resolution is expected tomorrow if extensive debate does not intervene.

Mr. Daugherty's supporters are in a more assertive mood since Chairman Adams of the Republican national committee gave his support publicly to the position taken by the attorney general. Controversy in senate consideration of the Wheeler
resolution revolves about the clause
for selecting the investigating committee personnel. Virtually all Republican leaders are united in opposition to it as drawn. The resolution is likely to be adopted after it has been amended.

Senator Borah and other senate
leaders, who have advised President Coolidge of their belief that in the general interest the attorney general
should offer his resignation, also appeared content to let the matter rest
in the hands of the president and Daugherty, and allow events to take their evident course so far as the senate is concerned. Senator Borah in his address Saturday stated his views frankly and as they were reported to have been given President
Coolidge and Daugherty in a white house conference. Borah and Senator Robinson (Dem., Ark.) both declared that all responsibility for Daugherty's remaining in the cabinet
must be assumed by President Coolidge. Senator Borah contended that Daugherty should resign immediately
"in the public interest." This, the Ohio senator said, required a personal sacrifice by Daugherty in order
that the public might have confidence
in the head of the department
charged with responsibility for action
not only in the oil cases, but in matters relating to the veterans' and other bureaus.

Senator Robinson declared that Chairman Adams of the Republican national committee was seeking to confuse the issue by making both the Daugherty case and the oil scandal
appear to be political in character.
Senator Robinson reiterated that Daugherty had lost public confidence and ought to be replaced. With thousands of federal secret service
operatives at his command, Daugherty, he argued, would hamper and embarrass the proposed senate inquiry.

PROGRESSIVES MEET

Would Have LaFollette in the Farmer-Labor Movement.

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 25.—A slate of national and state candidates was recommended for nomination at the state primary April 8, delegates selected to the national Farmer-Labor political convention at St. Paul May 30 and Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin urged to quit the Republican party by the progressives
of Nebraska at their conference at Grand Island. After recommending
W. J. Taylor of Merna as the party's candidate for United States senator,
the delegates adopted a resolution
calling on LaFollette to "help lead
the ever-rising tide of revolt against the capitalistic interests and join
with us in the growing farmer-labor movement." The Teapot Dome scandal, the resolution said, is "but one of many transactions which prove that both old parties are owned by capitalistic interests."

Many Bitten by Dogs.

Cleveland, Feb. 25.—Sixteen persons, mostly children, are undergoing
the Pasteur treatment here as a result of having come into contact with dogs which ran rampant through the east side and eastern suburbs recently. Every member of one family,
father, mother and three children,
were bitten.

Struck by Train.

Port Clinton, O., Feb. 25.—A train struck and killed Oliver Martin as he was gathering coal in the yards
here.

FAVORS OLD SYSTEM

Harper Raps Provisions of the Davis
Reorganization Act.

Columbus, Feb. 25.—John E. Harper, state welfare director, in a report
made to Governor Donahey, criticized provisions of the Davis reorganization act relating to control of state institutions and the methods of purchasing supplies and material. Return to the old bipartisan board of administration is advised in the report. The purchase system provided by the code, under which all supplies
are purchased through the state purchasing department, is wholly unsatisfactory, causes unavoidable delay
and is more expensive than the system in vogue prior to the adoption of the code, Mr. Harper told the governor.

Placing construction work of the welfare department under the direction of the state highway department
also is criticized. When the welfare department maintained its own architects the cost did not exceed $10,000
a year, Mr. Harper said, but the highway department has charged $60,142
for architectural work in 18 months.

Director Harper wants the "one man directorship" abolished and told
the governor it is the consensus of opinion among heads of departments
of the various institutions that under the present system the wards of the state can not be given proper care
and attention. He recounted a number of changes that have been suggested, but refused to give his approval to any of them.

HERE AND THERE

"Queenie" Scott Hooper, English
novelist, committed suicide at Whitley Bay, England, by slashing her throat with a razor, because she was unable "to think up any new ideas
for stories."

Five negro murderers were electrocuted at the Texas prison in Huntsville as the state inaugurated electro-cution as its means of legal execution
in place of hanging.

To Indorse Delegates.

Springfield, O., Feb. 25.—Democrats
of the Seventh congressional district
will convene here tomorrow to indorse delegates to the state and national conventions. Delegations will be present from Clark, Greene, Champaign, Fayette, Warren, Madison,
Union, Logan and Clinton counties.

WHITE IN RACE; OTHERS TO FILE

Candidates' Declarations Must Be Made This Week.

NEXT FRIDAY THE LAST DAY

Supporters of McAdoo to Make Fight For the Ohio Delegation to Democratic National Convention—Coolidge Delegates Approved by the President—Secretary of State Brown's Ruling.

Columbus, Feb. 25.—Secretary of State Brown has made a ruling requiring candidates for delegates to the national conventions to obtain the written consent of the presidential candidate whom they wish to support before they can enter.

Brown declared the question to be decided at Ohio's presidential primary April 29 is not "who shall be the delegates to the party conventions?" but "who shall be nominated for president at those conventions?"

The ruling of the secretary of state reverses the rule hitherto observed in Ohio and "closes" the primary election to candidates who can not obtain the written consent of presidential aspirants.

The ruling was given to the board of elections of Stark county, where Harry H. Weiss, Democrat, had attempted to file a declaration naming James M. Cox first choice and former Governor James E. Campbell second choice, without having obtained their consent.

The primary election system came into effect in Ohio in 1916. At that time H. Q. Hildebrandt, then secretary of state, held the written declaration of a candidate for president opened the field to any person desiring to file as candidate for delegate. It was adhered to by Secretary of State Harvey Smith, but reversed by others.

Hoke Donithen, President Coolidge's Ohio manager, entered Coolidge as a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, it being accompanied by the request that his name be printed upon official ballots for the April primary election. With the Coolidge declaration was filed authorization of Arthur L. Garford of Elyria for the use of his name as second choice of the Coolidge delegates, as provided for in the Ohio primary election law. Donithen was designated as official representative in Ohio of Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Garford. Coolidge delegates, both at large and for the districts, are expected to file in a few days.

William G. McAdoo is expected to file his declaration early this week. Secretary Brown advised W. D. Wilkin, Cleveland, attorney, and H. G. Dewese, Columbus, at a conference here, that it would be necessary to obtain written consent of the former treasury secretary before delegates could file for him. The two McAdoo supporters immediately wired to Mr. McAdoo in Los Angeles requesting him to forward his consent.

McAdoo Men to Fight. Supporters of McAdoo say they will make a determined fight for Ohio delegates to the Democratic national convention. Former Governor James M. Cox, Democratic presidential candidate in 1920, also will be a candidate. Written consent for his candidacy is in the hands of Ohio Democrats, but he has not filed with the secretary of state.

James A. White, former superintendent of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League, has entered into the contest for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. His candidacy was announced on a platform of tax reduction, law enforcement, honest administration of the state blue sky department, better care of state wards and improved roads.

Declarations of other gubernatorial candidates must be filed before Friday, the last day candidates may enter the race. Among Republicans who have indicated that they will become candidates are State Senator J. F. Burke of Elyria and Roscoe C. McCulloch of Canton.

President Coolidge's declaration revealed that he had given his formal approval to the lists of delegates selected by the state conference of Republican organizations here a few weeks ago. This list is headed by Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty. Mr. Daugherty's running mates on the "big seven" are Senators Frank B. Willis and Simeon D. Fess, William Cooper Procter of Cincinnati, Charles L. Knight of Akron, Mrs. John G. Battelle of Columbus and Mrs. David Tod of Youngstown.

BUMPER CROP EXPECTED

Ohio Farmers to Use Improved Potato Seed the Coming Spring.

Columbus, Feb. 25.—C. W. Ward of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation states that Ohio's 1924 potato crop should be the best ever produced if the season treats kindly the amount of good seed stock which will be used. Northern grown seeds will be used in greater amounts than ever before. Pooled orders for improved seed are coming to the offices of the federation from every potato growing section of Ohio, made up largely by county farm bureaus, working with individual growers. Many pooled orders are being filled with improved seed from Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, although about 10,000 bushels of Ohio produced certified seed will also be used.

Use of the northern grown certified seed has grown rapidly during the past few years, according to Mr. Ward. Experiments of several years ago showed that the northern grown seed was more nearly free from disease and higher yielding than the majority of native Ohio stock.

PROSPEROUS YEAR AHEAD FOR OHIOANS

State Banks Have Largest Resources in Their History.

Columbus, Feb. 25.—Ohio's state banks closed the year 1923 with the largest total of resources in their history, according to a statement issued today by H. E. Scott, superintendent of banks, based on reports made under the recent call.

Resources of these banks at that time totaled $1,723,587,658, a gain of nearly $157,000,000 during the year. Deposits were $1,478,321,848, a gain of more than $140,000,000 during the year. Of this sum nearly $711,000,000 were savings deposits, a gain in savings deposits of more than $107,000,000 during the year. Superintendent Scott says these figures indicate people of Ohio have acquired permanent savings habits.

Loans and discounts exceeded $1,000,000, an increase of nearly $125,000,000 during the year. Real estate loans exceeded $392,000,000, an increase of nearly $53,000,000.

Superintendent Scott says these figures show the extent to which the banks of the state responded to the demands for funds for buildings, manufacturing, farming and general business requirements. "Based upon information presented under the recent call, the department of banks feels warranted in predicting that the year 1924 will be a prosperous one for the people of the state of Ohio," said Superintendent Scott.

MANY STUDENTS ILL

Walking Typhoid Fever Raging at University of Tennessee.

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 25.—Two deaths occurred during an epidemic of typhoid fever at the Lincoln Memorial university, at Harrogate, Tenn., since Jan. 19, according to an announcement by Dr. C. B. Crittenden, state health commissioner. A number of other students are reported to be seriously ill. Seventy-five cases have developed. The disease is characterized by health authorities as the "walking typhoid." Two floors of the girls' dormitory have been converted into a hospital, with 30 nurses and no students are allowed to leave the institution.

BONUS MEASURE TO BE TAKEN UP

Will Be Considered as Soon as Tax Bill Is Disposed Of.

LEADERS' PLANS ANNOUNCED

Secretary Mellon of the Opinion That Neither the Garner Schedule in the Revenue Bill Nor the Original Mellon Rates Would Raise Sufficient Revenue For a Bonus—Compromise Sought on the Surtax Rate.

Washington, Feb. 25.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has informed members of the house that neither the Garner schedule now in the tax reduction bill, the original Mellon rates or those including miscellaneous tax changes reported by the ways and means committee would raise sufficient revenue for a bonus.

Mr. Mellon had been asked for his views on a compromise schedule for a 40 per cent surtax rate and a normal rate of 5 per cent on the incomes of more than $4,000, instead of 6 per cent, as carried in the organization measure.

Regular Republicans are continuing negotiations for a compromise on the surtax rate. They would throw out of the bill the Garner proposal, which fixes maximum surtaxes at 44 per cent.

Minor amendments to the tax reduction bill, none of which were passed, proposing to allow taxpayers more time in which to correct returns questioned by the treasury, were defeated in short skirmishes prior to the fight on the excess profits tax. The latter was defeated 157 to 74. A stubborn fight for the excess profits tax amendment, which would have re-enacted the law repealed in 1921, with slightly different rates, so prolonged consideration of the bill that leaders predicted a final vote on it could not now be expected before the latter part of the week. Representative James N. Frear of Wisconsin, Republican insurgent, submitted the amendment and was supported in debate by Representative William A. Oldfield of Arkansas, Democrat. Democrats, however, divided on the question, only about half of those present voting with the Republican insurgents for it.

Representative Longworth, Republican floor leader, gave assurance that the house would have an opportunity shortly to vote on a soldiers' bonus bill. This assurance was given to a group of house members who are former service men, when they called on the party leader to urge quick action by the ways and means committee on bonus legislation and an immediate vote by the house after a bill is reported. Mr. Longworth said the committee, as instructed by a Republican party conference, would take up the bonus bill as soon as the house disposes of the pending tax measure. Little time, he said, should be needed for the committee to act and after a bill is reported it will be given priority on the house legislative calendar.

After passage of the tax bill and while the ways and means committee is considering the bonus, Republican leaders plan to have the house dispose of the navy appropriation bill and legislation authorizing acceptance of Henry Ford's bid for Muscle Shoals.

Estate Left to Charity.

Washington C. H. O., Feb. 25.—Under the terms of the will of Jesse Eymann, Fayette county farmer, an estate of approximately $200,000 is left to charity. One-third of the proceeds after sale of real estate is to be paid into the Fayette county pool fund annually and the remaining two-thirds is to be distributed annually to the Fayette county children's home, the Fayette county Red Cross and other organizations.

Portsmouth, O., Feb. 25.—Paul Brock, 18, admitted, police say, that he set fire to four places just to see the fire apparatus in action and get a little excitement. DOINGS IN OHIO

State Lacks Hospitals.

Columbus, Feb. 25.—Dr. R. G. Leland, chief of division of hygiene in the state health department, outlined a review of health conditions in Ohio as revealed in reports received by the department. "Ohio," said Dr. Leland, "is greatly underhospitalized. However, movements are on in Columbus, Toledo, Cleveland and Cincinnati to relieve this condition. In a number of counties in the southeastern and southern part of the state there is not a single hospital bed. In New York city alone there are more hospital beds than in the entire state of Ohio. It is almost unbelievable that with few exceptions we have not until now given our human mechanism the same care we give our prize pedigreed live stock."

See 9-Cent Fare.

Cincinnati, Feb. 25.—It is announced here that unless a settlement of the traction problem in Cincinnati is effected by April 1 on a basis of the joint report submitted by the Cincinnati Street Railway company and the Cincinnati Traction company to the council committee on street railroads, which is not anticipated, the rate of fare on that date will be increased to 9 cents. That fact is predicted on the financial statement of the Cincinnati Traction company for January, which indicates a deficit, it is said.

Big Plant Sold.

Dayton, O., Feb. 25.—The plant and equipment of the Davis Sewing Machine company was purchased by W. S. McCormack & Shea, attorneys, representing the second mortgage bond holders and priority creditors, one of which is said to be the Union Trust company of Cleveland. The price paid was in excess of $500,000, the low figure set by Judge John E. Sater of the United States district court. The appraised value of the factory was $4,000,000.

Disastrous Blaze.

Salem, O., Feb. 25.—The business district of this place was swept by fire with heavy losses to several firms. The fire started in the cellar of a shoestore on Broadway. When it was discovered it had gained headway inside the walls of the store. The fire spread to a grocery store next door, then down the street to the Schwartz department store, a meat market and a confectionery. All were destroyed.

RENEW DEMAND FOR AN INQUIRY

Senators Would Investigate the Attorney General.

WHEELER RESOLUTION IS UP

Clause For Selecting the Investigating Committee Personnel Opposed by Republican Leaders—Resolution Likely to Be Adopted Within a Day or Two—Wheeler and Borah Leading the Fight in the Senate.

Washington, Feb. 25.—Demand for a senate committee investigation of Attorney General Daugherty was renewed in the senate today, the resolution of inquiry offered by Senator Wheeler (Dem., Mont.) being before that body. A vote on the resolution is expected tomorrow if extensive debate does not intervene.

Mr. Daugherty's supporters are in a more assertive mood since Chairman Adams of the Republican national committee gave his support publicly to the position taken by the attorney general. Controversy in senate consideration of the Wheeler resolution revolves about the clause for selecting the investigating committee personnel. Virtually all Republican leaders are united in opposition to it as drawn. The resolution is likely to be adopted after it has been amended.

Senator Borah and other senate leaders, who have advised President Coolidge of their belief that in the general interest the attorney general should offer his resignation, also appeared content to let the matter rest in the hands of the president and Daugherty, and allow events to take their evident course so far as the senate is concerned. Senator Borah in his address Saturday stated his views frankly and as they were reported to have been given President Coolidge and Daugherty in a white house conference. Borah and Senator Robinson (Dem., Ark.) both declared that all responsibility for Daugherty's remaining in the cabinet must be assumed by President Coolidge. Senator Borah contended that Daugherty should resign immediately "in the public interest." This, the Idaho senator said, required a personal sacrifice by Daugherty in order that the public might have confidence in the head of the department charged with responsibility for action not only in the oil cases, but in matters relating to the veterans' and other bureaus.

Senator Robinson declared that Chairman Adams of the Republican national committee was seeking to confuse the issue by making both the Daugherty case and the oil scandal appear to be political in character. Senator Robinson reiterated that Daugherty had lost public confidence and ought to be replaced. With thousands of federal secret service operatives at his command, Daugherty, he argued, would hamper and embarrass the proposed senate inquiry.

PROGRESSIVES MEET

Would Have LaFollette in the Farmer-Labor Movement.

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 25.—A slate of national and state candidates was recommended for nomination at the state primary April 8, delegates selected to the national Farmer-Labor political convention at St. Paul May 30 and Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin urged to quit the Republican party by the progressives of Nebraska at their conference at Grand Island. After recommending W. J. Taylor of Merna as the party's candidate for United States senator, the delegates adopted a resolution calling on LaFollette to "help lead the ever-rising tide of revolt against the capitalistic interests and join with us in the growing farmer-labor movement." The Teapot Dome scandal, the resolution said, is "but one of many transactions which prove that both old parties are owned by capitalistic interests."

Many Bitten by Dogs.

Cleveland, Feb. 25.—Sixteen persons, mostly children, are undergoing the Pasteur treatment here as a result of having come into contact with dogs which ran rampant through the east side and eastern suburbs recently. Every member of one family, father, mother and three children, were bitten.

Struck by Train.

Port Clinton, O., Feb. 25.—A train struck and killed Oliver Martin as he was gathering coal in the yards here.

FAVORS OLD SYSTEM

Harper Raps Provisions of the Davis Reorganization Act.

Columbus, Feb. 25.—John E. Harper, state welfare director, in a report made to Governor Donahay, criticized provisions of the Davis reorganization act relating to control of state institutions and the methods of purchasing supplies and material. Return to the old bipartisan board of administration is advised in the report. The purchase system provided by the code, under which all supplies are purchased through the state purchasing department, is wholly unsatisfactory, causes unavoidable delay and is more expensive than the system in vogue prior to the adoption of the code, Mr. Harper told the governor.

Placing construction work of the welfare department under the direction of the state highway department also is criticized. When the welfare department maintained its own architects the cost did not exceed $10,000 a year, Mr. Harper said, but the highway department has charged $60,142 for architectural work in 18 months.

Director Harper wants the "one man directorship" abolished and told the governor it is the consensus of opinion among heads of departments of the various institutions that under the present system the wards of the state can not be given proper care and attention. He recounted a number of changes that have been suggested, but refused to give his approval to any of them.

"CAT WOMAN" DIES WITH HER KITTENS

Little Old Lady of Brooklyn Succumbs to Gas.
Brooklyn.—The little old lady, with all the cats at 100 Crystal street, Brooklyn, passed away, but in her passing she managed to give the neighbors a last bit of mystery to match the measure of her queer life. She was found dead in a rocking chair in her kitchen with six dead kittens near her. Six grown cats staggered weakly about crying as they suffered from the gas turned on in several jets by their mistress.
For several years Miss Jennie Lane has been the mystery of the neighborhood. Some said she was a retired school teacher, but no one knew anything definite. She lived alone and devoted herself to the rescue of stray cats. She never spoke to the neighbors and when the police sought information of her relatives no one could tell anything of them.
She made careful preparations for her death, stuffing the windows with cloth and paper, and then she added the touch that marked her strange life. She hung a drapery of black over each front window.
Patrolman Frederick Grote in passing the house noticed the drapery and decided to investigate. He forced the door and came upon the dead woman. He opened the windows and then hurried upstairs, where he found Mr. and Mrs. Vincent and their child, Marie, and William Vincent, a brother, in a stupor from the gas filtering through from the lower floor. They were revived in the open air.
Downstairs the air had revived six of the cats. The others were dead. The six with renewed life set up a cry about the chair in which their mistress rested. The police attempted to drive them away, but they remained, howling. Before Miss Lane's body could be taken to the morgue the agents of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals were compelled to take four of the cats from the house. Two eluded the searchers, but they reappeared and their cries were heard for hours.

Hard to Keep Up

Stand of Clover

Reduction of Humus and Plant Food in Soil Increases Difficulty.

The most serious problem at present confronting the American farmer in many of the clover sections is the increasing difficulty of successfully maintaining stands of clover, says the United States Department of Agriculture. With continuous cropping and the consequent reduction of the humus and plant food in the soil the difficulty of growing red clover is greatly increased. This condition must be met and solved, since the loss of clover or its equivalent from the rotation leads rapidly to a rundown farm and unprofitable crop yields.

Suggestions for red clover culture based on many years of observation study, and experimental work are presented in the new Farmers' Bulletin 1339, Red Clover Culture, just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. The method adopted in any locality for growing clover, says the bulletin, must depend on the rotations followed and the labor and weather conditions in each place. It may be emphasized, however, that to get a good stand the clover must have a fair chance. As usually seeded, too little attention is paid to the weakness of the young clover plant and its needs. In the clover belt clover is important enough to warrant special care in selecting the seeding method best suited to the special soil and to the other conditions prevailing.

Essentials for Clover.

Clover must have lime, phosphorus and potash, and if the soil is poor in any of these it must be supplied before clover can be expected to do well. A deep well-drained soil is desirable, as on a poorly drained soil red clover will not thrive; better sow alsike clover on such soils if the drainage cannot be improved to a suitable state for red clover. The questions of lime and fertilizers are largely local ones. The soils in the clover belt vary widely, and the various fields on the same farm may need different treatments. The most suitable treatment for each farm or field is best determined by test, and this can be made without a great deal of trouble. A diagram in the bulletin illustrates how this is done by treating a series of experimental plots with the various fertilizers.

A series of plots, eight in number, is laid out in the field to be tested on land as nearly representative of the entire field as is possible to determine from observation beforehand. The first plot is left untreated for a check and is also the last in the row. Lime alone is put on the second, lime and phosphate on the third, lime and manure on the fourth, manure alone on the fifth, manure and phosphate on the sixth and phosphate alone on the seventh. The eighth plot is left untreated for a check.

Find Best Fertilizer.

This arrangement allows the application of all the lime and all the manure to one continuous area. The phosphate alone must be applied to separate areas, and phosphate is the easiest to apply. Potash plots can be inserted if desired, but over most of the clover area scarcity of phosphate is much more common than scarcity of potash, and by following the outline presented the farmer is likely to find which fertilizer is best to use. A ton of ground limestone and 250 to 300 pounds of 16 per cent acid phosphate per acre is suggested unless the land is known to be very poor in lime, when two tons of limestone may be applied.

A copy of this bulletin may be secured, as long as the supply lasts, from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington.

Farm Machinery Receives

Anything but Good Care

Farm machinery represents a large investment on the part of American farmers, but still it represents the one thing which gets the least care on the farm. The automobile, even the cheap little flivver, is built to withstand the ravages of the elements much better than is the farm machine. Still, in nearly every instance, we find the little $400 flivver under the roof of a $300 garage while the $1,000 tractor or the $1,200 thresher stands out in the lot for the winter. There's nothing logical, economical nor sound about the whole business and until we adopt some policy which embraces the better care of our tools of production on the farm, we can expect to be burdened down by our own overhead costs. The remedy is slowly being applied, but there's still lots of room for improvement and plenty of room for a good implement shed on every farm.

Potash and Phosphoric

Acid Needs of Tomatoes

Tomatoes require a relatively low percentage of nitrogen as compared with phosphoric acid and potash, both of which, however, are essential in fruit development. Commercial fertilizer should be applied in the drill, 600 to 1,000 pounds per acre, and thoroughly mixed with the soil, before the plants are set. Nitrate of soda is recommended as a side dressing and should be applied at the rate of 75 to 100 pounds per acre. Very heavy application of stable manure is not advised, as it may prove harmful to fruit formation and development and often encourages rot.

The "Burning Stone."
Sulphur is one of the oldest known elements; the ancient Assyrian alchemists regarded it as the principle of combustion on account of its own inflammability, and termed it "brimstone," meaning literally burning stone.

Lignite in Syria.
Coal, in the ordinary sense of the word, does not exist in Syria, but there are beds of lignite containing traces of vegetable organisms. The principal beds are in the Mettu; that of Cornaell, which has been worked; and in the district of Jezzine, those of Niha and Haitour to the east of Sidon. This is very extensive but shallow and close to the surface. At Jezzine amber, yellow and black, is abundant.—Christian Science Monitor

Hard to Keep Up Stand of Clover

Reduction of Humus and Plant Food in Soil In- creases Difficulty.

The most serious problem at present confronting the American farmer in many of the clover sections is the increasing difficulty of successfully maintaining stands of clover, says the United States Department of Agriculture. With continuous cropping and the consequent reduction of the humus and plant food in the soil the difficulty of growing red clover is greatly increased. This condition must be met and solved, since the loss of clover or its equivalent from the rotation leads rapidly to a rundown farm and unprofitable crop yields.

Suggestions for red clover culture based on many years of observation study, and experimental work are presented in the new Farmers' Bulletin 1339, Red Clover Culture, just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. The method adopted in any locality for growing clover, says the bulletin, must depend on the rotations followed and the labor and weather conditions in each place. It may be emphasized, however, that to get a good stand the clover must have a fair chance. As usually seeded, too little attention is paid to the weakness of the young clover plant and its needs. In the clover belt clover is important enough to warrant special care in selecting the seeding method best suited to the special soil and to the other conditions prevailing.

Essentials for Clover.
Clover must have lime, phosphorus and potash, and if the soil is poor in any of these it must be supplied before clover can be expected to do well. A deep well-drained soil is desirable, as on a poorly drained soil red clover will not thrive; better sow alsike clover on such soils if the drainage cannot be improved to a suitable state for red clover. Over two hundred Kewpie dolls, dressed and gowned in all the colors of the rainbow, were judged Saturday afternoon. AMUSEMENTS

Greenwich village, New York studio life as it is and not as some writers are wont to depict it, is a scene of many interesting sequences in the Paramount picture, "The Purple Highway" featuring Madge Kennedy, which will be shown at the Met theater Monday to remain for two days.

The story tells of a young playwright and musician, both of them failures as far as their professions go, who, spurred on to further efforts by April Blair, little slavey in the Home for Artistic Failures, of which they are inmates, come to live in New York City in the vicinity of Washington Square. Here Edgar Craig starts work on his new play and Joe Renard takes April in hand—for she has hopes of some day becoming a great star.

April's dream becomes a reality when their little attic studio is visited by an eminent theatrical manager, whom April recognizes as Manny Bean he, too, was at one time a member of the old Home, but is now a successful producer. Edgar's play is accepted and Joe is engaged to arrange the musical score and April is chosen as the star. The identity of the author of the play is, by order of Craig, carefully concealed from her.

So it is a great revelation when, after a trial run in Bridgeport and the play having scored heavily in New York, April learns that Edgar Craig is really Edgar Prentice, author of the production and that he is anything but a failure. Many dramatic scenes transpire before April and Edgar plight their troth.

In the supporting cast are Monte Blue, leading man; Pedro de Cordoba, Vincent Coleman, Dore Davidson, Emily Fitzroy and other capable screen artists.

Tinted Literature.

"Your narrative is too highly colored," remarked the editor, returning the bulky manuscript. "In what way?" Inquired the disappointed author. "Why," replied the editor, "in the very first chapter you make the old man turn purple with rage, the villain green with envy, the hero turn white with anger, the heroine turn red with confusion and the coachman turn blue with the cold."—Tit-Bits.

Removing Grease Spots.

To remove grease spots from carpets mix fuller's earth and magnesia together in equal proportions by scraping and pounding. Form this into a paste with hot water and spread on the spots. The next day brush it off and, if necessary, repeat the process.

Sin has many tools, but a lie is the handle which fits them all.—Holmes.

AMUSEMENTS

Greenwich village, New York studio life as it is and not as some writers are wont to depict it, is a scene of many interesting sequences in the Paramount picture, "The Purple Highway" featuring Madge Kennedy, which will be shown at the Met theater Monday to remain for two days.

The story tells of a young playwright and musician, both of them failures as far as their professions go, who, spurred on to further efforts by April Blair, little slavey in the Home for Artistic Failures, of which they are inmates, come to live in New York City in the vicinity of Washington Square. Here Edgar Craig starts work on his new play and Joe Renard takes April in hand—for she has hopes of some day becoming a great star.

April's dream becomes a reality when their little attic studio is visited by an eminent theatrical manager, whom April recognizes as Manny Bean he, too, was at one time a member of the old Home, but is now a successful producer. Edgar's play is accepted and Joe is engaged to arrange the musical score and April is chosen as the star. The identity of the author of the play is, by order of Craig, carefully concealed from her.

So it is a great revelation when, after a trial run in Bridgeport and the play having scored heavily in New York, April learns that Edgar Craig is really Edgar Prentice, author of the production and that he is anything but a failure. Many dramatic scenes transpire before April and Edgar plight their troth.

In the supporting cast are Monte Blue, leading man; Pedro de Cordoba, Vincent Coleman, Dore Davidson, Emily Fitzroy and other capable screen artists.

Tinted Literature.

"Your narrative is too highly colored," remarked the editor, returning the bulky manuscript. "In what way?" inquired the disappointed author. "Why," replied the editor, "in the very first chapter you make the old man turn purple with rage, the villain green with envy, the hero turn white with anger, the heroine turn red with confusion and the coachman turn blue with the cold."—Tit-Bits.

Removing Grease Spots.

To remove grease spots from carpets mix fuller's earth and magnesia together in equal proportions by scraping and pounding. Form this into a paste with hot water and spread on the spots. The next day brush it off and, if necessary, repeat the process.

An Early Start on Sunday.

RADIO SHOW

Cleveland Times Will Have Hundreds of Exhibits Beginning March 10.

Hundreds of exhibits ranging from modest crystal sets to mahogany cases capable of bringing Hawaii or London to the living room will feature The Cleveland Times Radio show which opens in Cleveland March 10. The event is the first in the state of Ohio.

In conjunction with the show there will be a mammoth amateur contest with entries from all parts of northern Ohio. A long list of prizes is offered for excellence in various phases of radio construction.

Engineers who have played foremost parts in the development of radio will conduct an institute every noon during show week. Addresses and discussions will be along popular lines and all sessions will be open to the general public.

Efforts will be made during the show to launch an educational campaign that will afford relief from interference which has become a considerable nuisance to radio fans throughout the district during recent months. Speakers will dwell on the subject at length while representatives of various exhibitors are being instructed to give information on methods of eliminating the evil.

The show will be held on lower Euclid avenue in the spacious quarters formerly occupied by the First Savings & Trust company. The entire ground floor will be devoted to exhibits and amateur showings while the balcony will contain information booths and the executive offices. A speakers' stand will be erected on the balcony level, thus permitting large crowds to hear the addresses.

The event is being staged by the Cleveland Times in conjunction with the Cleveland Radio Dealers association.

FORGER, PARDONED BY DONAHAY, BACK AGAIN

Wears Vest He Claims Wife of Governor Knit for Him.

Columbus, O.—Matthew J. Brennan, alias Thomas F. Egan, with a prison record extending back for 30 years and reputation of being one of the cleverest forgers in the country, who was released from the Ohio penitentiary by Governor Donahay's parole board on May 19 last on condition that he leaves Ohio, is back in durance vile.

Wearing a vest which he declared had been knitted for him by the governor's wife, Brennan was picked up on a charge of illegal possession of intoxicating liquor at a house at 530 Nelson road, Columbus, elaborately fitted up for the manufacture of moonshine liquor. The house is two blocks from the residence occupied by Governor Donahay before he moved into the executive mansion a year ago. Donahay lived at 754 Nelson road.

Long Record.
Brennan's finger prints revealed the following Bertillon record:

Names: Matthew Joseph Brennan, alias Theodore Brennan, alias Thomas Egan, alias Robert J. Reynolds, alias Thomas Murphy, alias William McCabe.

Convicted in 1894 for forgery in New York state, and sentenced to 10 years in prison; paroled. Convicted in 1898 of forgery, and sentenced to 10 years in Elmira reformatory, New York; convicted in 1908 of forgery, and given one year in the reformatory; convicted in 1911 of forgery, and sentenced to Sing Sing prison; arrested in 1916 in Cleveland for forgery and, while awaiting trial, he left for New York, where he was captured and returned; convicted on Dec. 12, 1916, at Cleveland of forgery and sentenced to from one to 20 years in the Ohio penitentiary. Paroled in 1918. Returned in 1921 for violating terms of his parole. Escaped from custody in 1922 while waiting to serve as a witness at the Franklin county courthouse; caught in Boston, where he was going under the name of William McCabe, and returned to the penitentiary. Paroled on May 13, 1923, on condition that he leave Ohio.

Arrested Again.
Brennan was arrested by Monte E. Milligan, special detective for the dry forces in Columbus. Milligan's pay and expenses of $310, approved by Attorney General C. C. Crabbe, for investigation of the Delaware Girls' Industrial school last summer, was held up by Governor Donahay for three months through his finance director, whose approval is required on all expenditures from the state treasury. Repeated demands for payment of the $310 met with refusal until three days after Brennan's arrest, when Governor Donahay O. K'd the bill for the Delaware investigation and Milligan received the money.

Brennan says he was told by "high enough authority to satisfy him" that he didn't have to pay any attention to the terms of his parole that he leave Ohio.

"See this vest I am wearing?" he asked, "Mrs. Donahay knitted that for me. That's how I stand with the Donahays."

Warden Preston E. Thomas of the penitentiary declared that when Brennan was paroled Governor Donahay personally gave the convict $10 with which to leave the state; that Brennan went to Pittsburgh, but soon returned.

OHIO GETS 51 DELEGATES TO THE G. O. P. CONVENTION

As the result of the recent action by the Republican national committee Ohio will have 51 delegates to the 1924 Republican national convention to be held at Cleveland, June 10.

Ohio representation was boosted in 1920 from 48 to 50 and now the state is given one more delegate. There will be a "big seven" elected at large instead of the "big four" as in the last presidential year, besides two delegates from each of the 22 congressional districts.

NO REASON FOR HYSTERIA

Certain of the Republican "irreconcilables" object very strenuously to American representation, though an official, upon a commission that will look into the German reparations question.

This commission will be strictly limited as to the scope of its work. It will make no final decisions. It can only advise. Its job will be a fact-finding one—learning whether Germany has the means to meet the present demands for indemnities, whether the total demands ought to be scaled down, whether the leakage of capital out of Germany has been secretly abetted by the government at Berlin and whether anything can be done to confiscate this capital in the countries where it has been sequestered.

There is no ground for this unofficial sharing in a very necessary piece of work being used as an excuse for ringing fire alarms. It is all well enough to be opposed to alliances, leagues and ententes and shady treaties. But it is foolish to get worked up over a lending of financial students. One might as well fear a war because a boy has let off a firecracker.

REMINISCENCES

Death of E. K. Rife Brings Back Incidents of Days of Long Ago.

Herbert R. Mengert, Columbus correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer in his weekly letter had the following in reference to the late Edward K. Rife, formerly of this city:

"To the older generation of Ohioans the news of the death in Los Angeles of Edward K. Rife, veteran newspaper man, brought many reminiscences. Rife was a contemporary of Allen O. Myers, the far-famed 'Pickaway' of the late years of the nineteenth and early years of the twentieth century. He had something of Myers' marvelous gift of satire and adorned political writings with his quips and thrusts.

Often his humor was of a turn that made the victim laugh with other readers. The penchant of former Congressman John J. Lentz, of this city, to make long speeches running into hours—many of them—he satirized upon one occasion in a story in the morning newspaper here with the droll statement that 'Mr. Lentz spoke last night and this morning.' Recognizing his own failing toward extended addresses, Mr. Lentz told this as his favorite campaign story in nearly every state of these glorious United States.

"Rife wrote legislative and political news for Columbus and Cincinnati papers, and many an older politician can testify to the trenchancy of his pen. Few of those who worked with him are on earth now. A new generation is upon the scene."

FORGER, PARDONED BY DONAHEY, BACK AGAIN

Wears Vest He Claims Wife of Governor Knit for Him.

Columbus, O.—Matthew J. Brennan, alias Thomas F. Egan, with a prison record extending back for 30 years and reputation of being one of the cleverest forgers in the country, who was released from the Ohio penitentiary by Governor Donahey's parole board on May 19 last on condition that he leaves Ohio, is back in duration.

Wearing a vest which he declared had been knitted for him by the governor's wife, Brennan was picked up on a charge of illegal possession of intoxicating liquor at a house at 530 Nelson road, Columbus, elaborately fitted up for the manufacture of moonshine liquor. The house is two blocks from the residence occupied by Governor Donahey before he moved into the executive mansion a year ago. Donahey lived at 754 Nelson road.

Long Record.
Brennan's finger prints revealed the following Bertillon record:
Names: Matthew Joseph Brennan, alias Theodore Brennan, alias Thomas Egan, alias Robert J. Reynolds, alias Thomas Murphy, alias William McCabe.

Convicted in 1894 for forgery in New York state, and sentenced to 10 years in prison; paroled. Convicted in 1898 for forgery, and sentenced to 10 years in Elmira reformatory, New York; convicted in 1908 for forgery, and given one year in the reformatory; convicted in 1911 for forgery, and sentenced to Sing Sing prison; arrested in 1916 in Cleveland for forgery and, while awaiting trial, he left for New York, where he was captured and returned; convicted on Dec. 12, 1916, at Cleveland of forgery and sentenced to from one to 20 years in the Ohio penitentiary. Paroled in 1918. Returned in 1921 for violating terms of his parole. Escaped from custody in 1922 while waiting to serve as a witness at the Franklin county courthouse; caught in Boston, where he was going under the name of William McCabe, and returned to the penitentiary. Paroled on May 19, 1923, on condition that he leave Ohio.

Arrested Again.
Brennan was arrested by Monte E. Milligan, special detective for the dry forces in Columbus. Milligan's pay and expenses of $310, approved by Attorney General C. C. Crabbe, for investigation of the Delaware Girls' Industrial school last summer, was held up by Governor Donahey for three months through his finance director, whose approval is required on all expenditures from the state treasury. Repeated demands for payment of the $310 met with refusal until three days after Brennan's arrest, when Governor Donahey O. K'd the bill for the Delaware investigation and Milligan received the money.

Brennan says he was told by "high enough authority to satisfy him" that he didn't have to pay any attention to the terms of his parole that he leave Ohio.

"See this vest I am wearing?" he asked, "Mrs. Donahey knitted that for me. That's how I stand with the Donaheys."
Warden Preston E. Thomas of the penitentiary declared that when Brennan was paroled Governor Donahey personally gave the convict $10 with which to leave the state; that Brennan went to Pittsburgh, but soon returned.

Herbert R. Mengert, Columbus correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer in his weekly letter had the following reference to the late Edward K. Rife, formerly of this city:

"To the older generation of Ohioans the news of the death in Los Angeles of Edward K. Rife, veteran newspaper man, brought many reminiscences. Rife was a contemporary of Allen O. Myers, the far-famed 'Pickaway' of the late years of the nineteenth and early years of the twentieth century. He had something of Myers' marvelous gift of satire and adorned political writings with his quips and thrusts.

Often his humor was of a turn that made the victim laugh with other readers. The penchant of former Congressman John J. Lentz, of this city, to make long speeches running into hours—many of them—he satirized upon one occasion in a story in the morning newspaper here with the droll statement that 'Mr. Lentz spoke last night and this morning.' Recognizing his own falling toward extended addresses, Mr. Lentz told this as his favorite campaign story in nearly every state of these glorious United States.

"Rife wrote legislative and political news for Columbus and Cincinnati papers, and many an older politician can testify to the trenchancy of his pen. Few of those who worked with him are on earth now. A new generation is upon the scene."

Jump of $600,000,000 in Farmers' Receipts

Chicago.—Net cash receipts of the American farmers this year will be over $600,000,000 above last year, says the research department of the American Farm Bureau federation. Nearly half is to be credited to the cotton crop.

Interest and taxes will probably be slightly less than last year.

"What the man on the farm gains from now on he can hold for himself," says the report.

Party Costs Man $5,700; Carried Cash Three Years

Baltimore, Md.—After carrying $5,700 in his pocket for three years William Dimling did some drinking and lost the entire sum, he told Magistrate Rettallata in Eastern police court. The money represented savings of 23 years.

"I met some friends," he said, "and we went to some saloons in South Baltimore and had a few drinks. I had the wallet with my money in it in my hip pocket. The pocket was shut with a safety pin. I took it out only once. I had it when I left and got on a street car. I can't remember any one following me, but when I got home my money was gone. I've only $19 left."

Magistrate Rettallata dismissed the charge of disorderly conduct.

"If you've lost all that money," he said, "your party has cost you enough already."

DISLIKED GAME OF "PLAYMATES"

By DOROTHY N. DONAHUE

(©, 1924, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

APRIL wasn't the only one that possessed such gorgeous desires. But she was distinctive in that she stuck to them. April wanted a young giant with tender eyes and a strong chin, a scarlet roadster, a drawing room with pearl chandeliers, a great deal of money and a heart of gold; in short, a perfect young gladiator with advantages and a steadfast religion.

She told Colin about her ambitions. Colin was twenty and lived across the street from April. He had played with her all his life; for 15 years in fun, for three in dead seriousness.

He stood with one foot on the threshold of the door, his cap in his hand, the stray lock in his eyes, and glowered.

"All right. I hope you find him the very pink of perfection. But he won't be any good. A guy with all that and as good looking as you've disgustingly put him just can't be true-blue. In acquiring the riches and cultivating his beauty he loses all sense of real value and turns end. You'll find that out."

And Colin was gone.

"Don't be stupid," April called after him, but he didn't hear.

A week later April met the shining knight of her dreams. He came straight from New York.

Gaylord Marchmont liked the shy smile and the dark blue eyes, the softness of the blond hair and the tiny, childish figure.

"Will you ride with me?" April blushed and rode.

There were many rides. Gaylord was staying on a week or so to straighten things out with Steve Wainwright. He called for April every evening and on the fourth, as April stepped into the car, she looked over and caught Colin peeking out at them. Her eyes shone and her heart sang, "I've found him, Colin. I have found him."

Colin debated whether it would be more sensational to lick Gaylord before a crowd or in private, and let the news leak out afterwards. He decided on the crowd and then went to call on Daisy, whom he hated.

Out in the country with the car spinning along a moonlight illumined road, April lived in a dream.

Gaylord Marchmont removed one hand from the wheel and placed it over April's two white ones.

"Life turns me a crooked deal, little one. Just because I have a name and position that some one covets and because that some one has the money that I covet, I must marry her—Gleenna Langford. Ever hear of her? We needn't despise each other, I think, but what must be, must be. I'd be happy as a clam to have you—I wonder if you know I'm going tomorrow and that I think you're the sweetest playmate in the world."

April closed her eyes and relaxed a little and came out of her dream. She wanted to grab his arm and tell him, tearfully, that she didn't know he was only playing a game and that she didn't want to be playmate.

But April was a wise little girl and had just found it out.

"My dear Gay—how silly. Life isn't to blame. It's tradition and a loss of the ability to realize true values. Don't blame the poor old world. It's being—cad. (Oh, if Colin could hear), but I won't preach. We've both been just playing. Let it go at that."

April surprised herself. They drew up to the door an hour later and Gaylord Marchmont looked at April quizzically.

"Tell me, little playmate, what it is in life you really like."

"Me? Like? Why—I guess sunsets and rainbows, violin music—and, why, just living."

"That's just like you. Do you know, do you want to know what Gleenna Langford likes—in life? It's amusing."

"I think I know, Gay. She likes long, slender drawing rooms with pearl chandeliers, scarlet roadsters, lap dogs, bon-bons and men like you."

"Men like me, April? Are you being nice—or not?"

"Not! Men that let an army of ancestors with musty ideas and family traditions push them into a marriage that they hate—men that don't know themselves or what they want, how to get it or how to think straight. Why, you aren't even square enough to play your own game straight. You have a little fun on the side, a bit of amusement with some little light-headed country girl you call 'Playmate' for conscience's sake. That's what she likes and what she's getting. Good-night, Mr. Marchmont."

After she had gone, Gaylord Marchmont huddled down into his seat, turned up his coat collar and shivered.

"Forty below, and the mercury still dropping. So this is Alaska!"

The next night Colin came over.

"He's gone, is he?"

"Yes."

"If you think I'm going to get down on my knees and murmur that I've been waiting for you, I'm not. I'm going to start all over again. We've been playmates too long. We start as strangers. I'll win you, but I'll do it in my own way, and I'll make you say, 'My dear Colin, you're wonderful,' instead of 'Don't be stupid, Colin.' So be prepared for a stormy and tempestuous wooing. I'm out for victory. Laugh that off! Good-night."

April sank down into a chair and laughed and cried at intervals.

"So that's to be my punishment. It's rather too bad for Colin, but I'm going to love it."

Chicago.—Lowbrows are just as smart as highbrows. This is straight from Prof. H. R. Mayberry, of the psychology department of the University of Chicago, who announced conclusions reached after years of study during which he examined and measured 3,000 heads.

"The real index to intelligence from head measurements is the distance from the ear to the top of the head," Professor Mayberry said. "The greater the distance from the ears to the peak of the dome, the greater the intelligence of the person. Nothing was found to support the theory that you can judge intelligence by the height or width of the forehead."

Hotel Stenographer

BY ROE FULKERSON

"What hit him?" The House Detective watched the young man. "I just told him I would not go out in his car, if he was the only man left in the world, and his car was the only automobile ever made," said the Hotel Stenographer.

"Don't you like him?" asked the House Detective.

"I do not like his automobile manners," replied the girl. "I have never been out with him, but I know girls who have. If the average dancing fool or gas stepper, had any idea how well he was catalogued among the nice girls, he would either need a large-sized hat, or else feel so small you would have to have a microscope to find him.

"With so many cars, so many gas speeders, and so many good roads everywhere, young people spend a lot of their time drinking in fresh air. Girls have to drink a lot of fresh talk and conduct, too, if they do not know whom they are out with.

"But the nice girls have a card index of these birds. We know them from A to Izzard, from Dan to Beer-sheba, and from the time they step on the starter till they slow down for the final clinch at the dark place, under the tree, just before you get to your own door.

"The chief occupation of married women is comparing children. The chief occupation of single girls is comparing sweeties. I have heard half a dozen other girls tell about losing hair nets when they were out with him, and I take no chances.

"The horny-handed sons of toil, who wield the pick and wheelbarrow, are not the only ones who have unions. The girls of this and every other town are all in good standing in the local and that bird is blacklisted."

The ocean cable between New York, the Azores and the Irish coast rests on the bed of the ocean. ONE of the important men given to the American army during the World War by Ohio was Brigadier General Chauncey B. Baker, who is now retired after 33 years of service and is Ohio state commander of the American Legion. He has accepted appointment as chairman of the Ohio Division of the American Committee for Relief of German Children, and has opened state headquarters at 395 East Broad street, Columbus, O. General Baker graduated from West Point in 1886. He served as a major in the Spanish American War and was chief of the American transportation service in France during the World War.

The Bishop's Boys.

The first bishop of North Carolina, John Stark Ravenscroft, generally spoke of the clergy under him as if they were his own children, and Mr. Marshall Delancey Hayward in his book, "Lives of the Bishops of North Carolina," says that Bishop Ravenscroft loved them like children, and was loved in return as a father is loved. "I wouldn't give my fourteen boys for your whole diocese!" was his proud declaration to a rector of a fashionable church in New York.

U. S. TO SELL RUGS ONCE OWNED BY CZAR

Valued at $47,000 to Be Auctioned

New York.—Persian rugs, valued at $47,000, will be sold at auction by the bureau of seizures of the customs department to cover unpaid duties and salvage charges. One story is that they were used as hangings in the palace of the late Czar Nicholas, although there is considerable mystery concerning where they came from and to whom they were consigned.

One rug considered more valuable than the others is 54 by 79 inches and is said to be a perfect specimen of the weaver's art. Interwoven in the strands of luxuriant color is a remarkable likeness of the czar, seated on his throne, wearing his saber and full regalia as emperor of all the Russias. The belief that the rugs were used as hangings and not as floor coverings is strengthened by this fact, since it is pointed out that no royal Russian would have walked on a likeness of the czar.

The rugs are in the usual Persian colors, mulberry, red and blue, and are so fine they can be crumpled up almost as though they were silk. The rug bearing the woven image of the czar was appraised at $20,000 by the customs officials. The only identifying mark found on any of the rugs is on this one. In the corner under the czar's left boot, are the initials W. A. R. and "Bagdad" together with some Oriental inscription.

There is an interesting story in connection with the manner in which these works of art fell into the hands of the customs officers.

Three years ago they were sent here aboard the shipping board vessel Massick, which sprung a leak on the way and was salvaged. The rugs were consigned to Peter Deppel and were sent by the bank of Deval, Russia.

Shipping board officials after considerable difficulty found Deppel and informed him that he could have his consignment on payment of his share of the salvage charge plus the import tax, which altogether came to about $8,000. The rugs were valued at $44,600 by the shipper.

Deppel refused to pay the charges and shortly afterward disappeared. Efforts to find him were fruitless and the rugs were removed from the custom house to the seizure room in the army base, Brooklyn. That was three years ago. Recently it was decided to sell the rugs at auction to recover at least some of the losses entailed by the shipping board and to collect the import tax.

Hotel Stenographer

BY ROE FULKERSON

"What hit him?" The House Detective watched the young man. "I just told him I would not go out in his car, if he was the only man left in the world, and his car was the only automobile ever made," said the Hotel Stenographer.

"Don't you like him?" asked the House Detective.

"I do not like his automobile manners," replied the girl. "I have never been out with him, but I know girls who have. If the average dancing fool or gas stepper, had any idea how well he was catalogued among the nice girls, he would either need a large-sized hat, or else feel so small you would have to have a microscope to find him.

"With so many cars, so many gas speeders, and so many good roads everywhere, young people spend a lot of their time drinking in fresh air. Girls have to drink a lot of fresh talk and conduct, too, if they do not know whom they are out with.

"But the nice girls have a card index of these birds. We know them from A to Izzard, from Dan to Beer-sheba, and from the time they step on the starter till they slow down for the final clinch at the dark place, under the tree, just before you get to your own door.

"The chief occupation of married women is comparing children. The chief occupation of single girls is comparing sweeties. I have heard half a dozen other girls tell about losing hair nets when they were out with him, and I take no chances.

"The horny-handed sons of toil, who wield the pick and wheelbarrow, are not the only ones who have unions. The girls of this and every other town are all in good standing in the local and that bird is blacklisted."

SUIT DISMISSED

Government's Charges Not Specific, Federal Court Holds.

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 25.—Federal Judge West dismissed the government's suit against Stone & Webster, involving claim for damages for alleged war-time waste in building Camp Travis here. Dismissal was on the grounds that the government's allegations of gross negligence and waste were general in character and did not name any specific case. District Attorney John Hartman gave notice of appeal.

The suit was filed some months ago at a time the government filed similar suits in various courts in an attempt to collect many millions which it is claimed were paid war-time contractors in excess of the sum rightfully owing to them. At the first hearing here Judge West notified attorneys for the government that the petition was vague and indefinite and gave them time to prepare a more specific petition. When the case came up the court held the amended petition did not cite specific instances upon which to justify the suit.

ESCAPES FROM JAIL

Man Wanted in New York Makes Dash From French Prison.

Paris, Feb. 25.—Paul Camilliere, alleged accomplice of Alphonse Moure in the robbery of the home of Albert R. Shattuck in New York in April, 1922, escaped from jail at Marseilles, France.

Camilliere was being held for extradition to New York. He made a dash for liberty when the prisoners were emptying their pails in the prison yard before being locked up for the night. He and another prisoner fired over the heads of the guards as they ran through the gate, which had been opened to admit a wagon, and jumped into a waiting automobile.

American detectives are here awaiting the conclusion of the extradition proceedings to take the prisoners back to America. The police are watching the harbor, and it is expected that Camilliere will try to make for Italy by sea.

MISSOURI SCENE OF GREAT QUAKE

Earth Tremor in 1812 Caused Mississippi to Run Backward.

Recent reports from various points in the Mississippi valley telling of slight earthquake shocks are unusual; but they seem extraordinary, like extremes of temperature and other out-of-the-way weather phenomena, only because man's memory is short, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"One of the world's greatest earthquakes, and certainly the most severe in America since the days of Columbus, occurred in the heart of the Mississippi valley in 1811 and 1812," continues the bulletin. "Fortunately there were few towns and no bridges and dams and railroads to be destroyed in those days, for the pioneers had just begun the westward push that was quickly to spread population and development all the way to the Pacific.

Destruction in Settlements.

"The center of the disturbances was almost exactly in the bed of the Mississippi river, about 50 miles south of the mouth of the Ohio. The little town of Caruthersville, in what is now the southeast corner of Missouri, lay where the quakes were greatest. It was totally destroyed, though its inhabitants escaped both falling timbers and river waves and found refuge on a nearby hill. New Madrid, on the river a few miles to the north, suffered almost as much.

"This region has practically no hard rocks, but consists of beds of clay and sand several thousand feet deep. It is in such formations that earthquakes cause greatest damage since the relatively loose ground is easily moved, great earth billows roll, and cracks form.

Made River Run Backward.

"The bed of the Mississippi, which has lain so quietly, to the knowledge of the past two generations, was momentarily obstructed near New Madrid. Its waters flowed violently upstream and sloshed from side to side, destroying numerous boats at that river emporium. Great fissures opened in the surrounding country and jets of sand spouted out as they did in another disastrous American earthquake at Charleston, S. C., 75 years later. Seismographs did not exist in those days, but the tremors of the great Mississippi valley earthquake were actually felt as far north as the Canadian border and as far south as New Orleans. A hundred miles to the east boulders were shaken from mountain cliffs.

Created Numerous Lakes.

"The earthquake of 1811-12 is not merely a dim memory. It left its marks deep in the countryside. Reel-foot lake, 14 miles long and four or more wide, in the northwest corner of Tennessee, was its greatest geographic contribution. A heavily forested section sank to form this new body of water, and the gaunt stumps of thousands of trees protruding from parts of the lake tell the story to this day. The land about the lake retains the forms of the huge billows into which it was thrown, and which become apparent when the section is viewed from an airplane.

"Numerous smaller lakes were formed by the earthquake west of the Mississippi, in what is now Missouri and Arkansas. Careful geological examination still discloses traces of deep fissures that were opened up in 1811, and which time, weather and vegetation have not been able to hide."

Wind Ties Knots in Flag on U. S. Capitol

Strong wind played a remarkable trick with the Stars and Stripes over the house wing of the Capitol in Washington.

After tearing the flag into strips the wind plaited one section into a braid exactly patterned after the manner a woman braids her hair and then tied it in a hard knot. Another part was turned and knotted until it resembled a huge twist of Kentucky tobacco.

The wind became fierce before the force of the blow was realized, and it was deemed unsafe for a few hours to send a man up with a storm flag.

Portland Using Poison Gas in Its War on Rats

Portland, Ore.—Poison gas is proving effective in the city's war against rats, according to H. S. Speer, who is in charge of the work. Cyanide gas was used at one of the city dumps recently and in a small test area more than 50 rodents were killed. Mr. Speer thinks rats can be practically eliminated from such places by the use of the gas.

The war on rats in buildings is being carried on by means of poisons and traps, as the use of gas inside is dangerous.

CONFIDENCE

The most beautiful of all human relationships are based on CONFIDENCE. Love is based on confidence, friendship is based on confidence, happy marriages are based on confidence; and so, confidence is the highest aim a business institution can achieve, because it introduces into the processes of buying and selling, something of the unselfish quality of those sacred human relationships that are untouched and uncontaminated by money. This store never wants to be guilty of such bad taste as to claim perfection, but it makes no secret of its ambition to foster and deserve at all times the confidence of its customers.

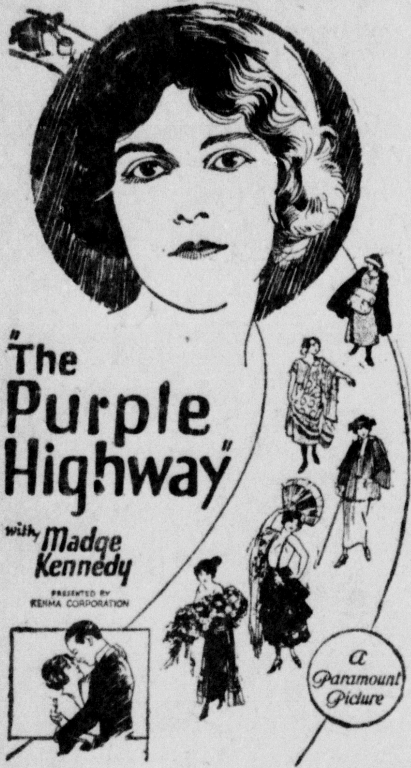

There is no higher success than TO BE BELIEVED IN!

Portland, Ore.—Poison gas is proving effective in the city's war against rats, according to H. S. Speer, who is in charge of the work. Cyanide gas was used at one of the city dumps recently and in a small test area more than 50 rodents were killed. Mr. Speer thinks rats can be practically eliminated from such places by the use of the gas.

The war on rats in buildings is being carried on by means of poisons and traps, as the use of gas inside is dangerous.

"The Store That Treats You Right"

There Lots of Room to Turn Around!

The purpose of this ad is to get Circleville men ready for the greatest style news that ever visited men's clothing.

This Spring, the clothes are looser----no, not the baggy peg-top looser suits that went with mandolins and college caps in 1904.

Entirely different! They are roomier in the coats, vests and trousers---but it is the kind of looseness that will look better on you than you have looked for years.

On display now for men to see, try on and pass along until they get ready to purchase---

CONFIDENCE

The most beautiful of all human relationships are based on CONFIDENCE. Love is based on confidence, friendship is based on confidence, happy marriages are based on confidence; and so, confidence is the highest aim a business institution can achieve, because it introduces into the processes of buying and selling, something of the unselfish quality of those sacred human relationships that are untouched and uncontaminated by money. This store never wants to be guilty of such bad taste as to claim perfection, but it makes no secret of its ambition to foster and deserve at all times the confidence of its customers.

There is no higher success than TO BE BELIEVED IN!
